

Expressions of Leadership: Supporting First Year Advisors and Program Convenors as Leaders of Learning at Griffith

You are invited to an interactive workshop exploring different expressions of leadership and how to make these work for you in your leadership role. This event is open to all Griffith colleagues. It will be of particular benefit to First Year Advisors, Program Convenors and those considering take up of these important leadership roles in the future. Presentations and discussion will also be of interest to Deans (Learning & Teaching), Heads of School, Course Convenors and those responsible for designing and supporting top quality student learning experiences.

The workshop will focus on some of the key leadership issues in Higher Education, including strategies for managing and shaping change at the School level. Findings from a recent National study entitled, Learning Leaders in Times of Change, will be featured through a "virtual" interview with lead author, Professor Geoff Scott (UWS). Practical strategies for career advancement, change management, leadership and supporting current and aspiring leaders will be shared during the day.

Come and explore the dimensions of leadership and what it can mean for you –

- Do you see yourself as a leader?
- Do others see you as a leader?
- What strategies are you using to manage and lead change in your School/Group?
- How might the University support you in your leadership role?
- How are you using your leadership role to support high quality student learning and outcomes?
- How could you be more strategic in documenting your leadership activities as part of your own career development?
