

Applying for Griffith Awards for Excellence in Teaching (GAETs)

Christine Grimmer, Dr Duncan Nulty and representatives from the Secretariat.
(Where possible, previous award winners will contribute to the workshop)

Each year, Griffith presents awards for excellence in teaching and awards for programs that enhance student learning. Winning a GAET is often a step on the path to winning a national teaching award or citation. These workshops on preparing effective applications for awards will provide essential information about award guidelines and application processes, and discuss strategies for effectively outlining your teaching philosophy, addressing criteria and collecting and documenting a range of evidence to support your claim of excellence in learning and teaching.
